

PIAZZA DUOMO

Ristorante in Piazza del Duomo

Piazza Risorgimento is the official name for this historic location, but for the people of Alba it is known as Piazza del Duomo or Piazza del Municipio, but more importantly, it is known as the heart of the city and thus the heart of the Langhe. It is in this heart that the Ceretto family has decided to open it's ambitious new venture, the restaurant Piazza Duomo.

When visiting the building it's impossible to imagine how this 17th century palazzotto could be renovated to open in just a few months, but to us everything is clear!

The idea behind the project was to open a prototype restaurant in which two different themes operate within the same space. La Piola, located on the first floor, will focus on traditional food and wine from the Langhe and Roero while upstairs, Piazza Duomo will be more international and allow Executive Chef Enrico Crippa to express his talent.

Piazza Duomo is the culmination of a search for excellence in every aspect of the project. Using a team which combines both local traditions and international experience, they have provided the experience necessary to realize a project that will resonate past the streets of Alba and allow the culture and products of the Langhe to be recognized and appreciated throughout the world.

In the kitchen, Crippa, rigorous and creative, has the energy of youth and the experience of working with some of the best chefs in Europe and Japan. Following the restoration project are American and Italian architects Bill Katz and Steven Shiler and Luca and Marina Deabate; for the creation of the kitchen, Monsier Jean Bertaud of Matinox, Marilena Bonino for the furniture and an assortment of artists who along with these professionals have rendered this space more inviting and unique.

At the end it has been a new and fascinating challenge to fuse together the history of our winery with with culture and art. Thanks to the collaborative efforts of internationally famous artists such as Robert Indiana, James Brown and Donald Beachler, we are able to introduce to the world La Piola and Piazza Duomo.
